Lost or stolen between the 20th April and 15th May, 1877, from the steam ship "City of Santiago," while lying at Sandridge Pier, Melbourne,—one deal case, about 3 feet by 2 feet 6 in., containing about 150 volumes of classical and theological works, value about £100. The case is fastened with screws and bound with iron clamps, addressed to Frank Coghlan, Melbourne, via Liverpool, per steam ship "City of Santiago," "Not Wanted on the voyage," written on a label and gummed on the top of the case. This case is supposed to have gone with the luggage of a gentleman named McLeod, who arrived in the same ship and left for Dunedin, N.Z., shortly after. Also one mahogany box, about 2 feet 6 in. long, 15 in. wide, and 15 in. deep, containing about 50 volumes, chiefly theological works and one or two pieces of music. This box was in the cabin and had no address; when the passengers went ashore this box was left in charge of the steward, a man named Brown, until transhipped on board the s.s. Tanjore, for King George's Sound. The steward of the Santiago was dismissed and the second steward stated this box was put on board the Sydney steamer with Dr. Aspinall's luggage. Dr. Aspinall is now residing in Brisbane, Queensland. A gentleman named Wood, now in the Government Survey Office, Brisbane, can identify the box and books as he had the use of the books on the passage from Liverpool. The two cases are the property of the Rev. Frank Coghlan, now residing in Perth, Western Australia.
