[Enclosure 2.]

THE FULLERTON MURDER.

Mystery still surrounds the terrible murder at Fullerton, Neb., in which our citizens are so deeply interested. A Mr. Young, who has a brother living near the scene of the tragedy, reported here this week that the body of Furnivall had been found. This information does not comport, however, with the following despatch published in the "Minneapolis Tribune," of Wednesday:—

Omaha, Oct. 14.—The following is the verdict in the case of the quadruple murder near Fullerton, Nance County, in this State.

"We believe that H. A. G. Baird, Hugh Mair, Harry Perceval, Mrs. Harry Perceval, and her one-year-old child came to their death feloniously, Sunday evening, September 28th, and Monday, September 29th, 1884; and that they came to their death by wounds from weapons in the hands of one George Furnivall.—S. HENRY."

The details of the murder, as brought forth by the investigation, are as follows:—Furnivall and Mair went to Edmondson's, Sunday, and from there Furnivall and one of the Edmondson boys went to a paint office a few miles distant, and Mair and another Edmondson went to Clarke. Furnivall went to Edmondson's first, and was mad because Mair had not got back: it being Mair's work to do the cooking. Mair returned soon and enquired if Furnivall had gone home. On being told that he had, he hurried home, saying "George will be mad because I am not there to cook supper." A quarrel took place upon Mair's return, and ended in Mair not getting Furnivall's supper, and Furnivall, in his rage, loaded his gun and shot Mair while he was in bed.

Baird had been in the habit of coming every night from Perceval's and bathing in a creek near the house. He generally went in and had a chat with Mair. It is supposed that he carried out his usual habit, Monday night, and discovered Mair's dead body, and was shot and thrown into the creek by Perceval*, on the principle that "dead men tell no tales." Furnivall knew that enquiry after Baird would be made upon Perceval's return, and as it was impossible to get far until the train left Fullerton, Tuesday morning, he waited for Perceval's return from Fullerton, Monday night, and when he went for hay for his horses, shot him down, and ended his foul crime by shooting Mrs. Perceval, with whom he had previously had trouble. After murdering Mrs. Perceval, he broke open the cash box and went through Mrs. Perceval's pocket book. It is not thought that he could have secured over $100, and this, with $98 obtained at the First National (where he had left a note as security a week previous), is thought to be the only money he had with him. The shoes Furnivall had on on Monday, when A. H. Bird was there, were found covered with blood. The remains of his overalls were found in the stove, where he burned them. A paper was found on which was written, "wait 'until to-morrow night, and I will see what my chances are." Furnivall's best friends now admit his guilt. The testimony taken by the Coroner's jury fills nearly two hundred pages.

Mr. Frank Tanner arrived in this city Wednesday evening, and we understand pronounces the despatch in the "Tribune" mainly correct.—Owatonna Journal, Oct. 17.

Special Inquiry.

Officers in charge of Sub-Districts will cause inquiry to be made with a view of ascertaining if James Mann is at present in this Colony. Description—slight, age about 23 years, 5ft. 2in. high, dark complexion, regular features, with a little color in the cheeks, dark eyes, thin black moustache and hair; dresses neatly; walks with a long swinging stride. Native of Manchester, England. Arrived at Sydney from London per s.s. "Liguria" on the 15th July, 1883, and followed the occupation of an ironmonger's assistant until November following, at which time he started in business as aerated water manufacturer. Left Sydney on the 6th March, 1884, and was heard of the following month in Perth, Fremantle, or Albany. There is no record of his having arrived in this Colony by the name of Mann, and as he levanted from Sydney with about £300, thereby defrauding his creditors, it is very probable that if he is here he has assumed another name. Result of inquiries to be forwarded to Detective Office, Perth. ^{B1/0000.}

Special Inquiry.

Officers in charge of Sub-Districts will cause inquiry to be made with a view of ascertaining if James Mann is at present in this Colony. Description—slight, age about 23 years, 5ft. 2in. high, dark complexion, regular features, with a little color in the cheeks, dark eyes, thin black moustache and hair; dresses neatly; walks with a long swinging stride. Native of Manchester, England. Arrived at Sydney from London per s.s. "Liguria" on the 15th July, 1883, and followed the occupation of an ironmonger's assistant until November following, at which time he started in business as aerated water manufacturer. Left Sydney on the 6th March, 1884, and was heard of the following month in Perth, Fremantle, or Albany. There is no record of his having arrived in this Colony by the name of Mann, and as he levanted from Sydney with about £300, thereby defrauding his creditors, it is very probable that if he is here he has assumed another name. Result of inquiries to be forwarded to Detective Office, Perth. ^{B1/0000.}
