Complaints having been made of the practice of allowing prisoners under escort the use of money found in their possession, for the purpose of purchasing tobacco and other articles on the journey, steps must be taken to put a stop to the irregularity.

No money must be allowed to sentenced prisoners for purchases of any description, but in the case of unsentenced prisoners, absolutely necessary refreshment for them may be purchased, at their request, out of any money taken from them.

Any money thus expended must be entered on the prisoner's property sheet, and the entry be initialled by him.
