Karmal Engine Packing.

Awarded Special 1st Prize and Gold Medal, Coolgardie Exhibition, 1899. Awarded Highest Honors and Gold Medal, Greater Britain Exhibition, 1899.

KARMAL PACKING is quite distinct from all other Packings by whatever name they are called, and which are being offered to Steam Users. As its lubricating qualities never cease so long as there is a fibre of the Packing loft, it cannot char or become hard, thus preventing any probability of the rods becoming fluted. It stands any pressure of steam, and as the lubricant is unburnable it will stand any degree of heat.

It hats longer than any other Engine Packing, both for steam and water.

It insis longer than any other Engine Packing, to be for steam and water.

With KARMAL Engine Packing the Steam User has the satisfaction of using up all the Packing he pays for, as it never needs taking out of the gland, a new ring placed on the top of the old ones being all that is required.

Being a self-lubricating Packing it requires neither oil nor tallow, which means continuous and therefore considerable saving as regards time and expense. In support of these statements we would draw your attention to the Testimonials we have received during the last twelve years from firms of the highest standing, and also the Extracts from the Mechanical Papers.

We solicit a trial, and feel sure you will find your annual cost for Packing considerably reduced, the rods in better condition, the glands kept tighter, and more general satisfaction given both to the buyer and the user.
