

CAMERON CHISHOLM & NICOL Architectural plans and other material

Established in 1884, the firm has been in continuous operation since that time under a changing but continuing partnership structure. A structural engineering section was added to the Perth office in 1964 and in 1969 an office was opened in Canberra. An office was set up in Adelaide in 1977, to operate as a joint venture practice and to undertake a large commercial project. During 1982 a Sydney office was established and a Brisbane office in 1987. Currently known as Cameron Chisholm Nicol.

In Western Australia the firm has been responsible for many major buildings, including the Empire Games Village (1962), Boans Forrest Place store, the Alexander Library building, Allendale Square, Burswood Island Resort and Casino and the Transperth Bus Junction.

The collection contains the work of several architects. Including

- James William WRIGHT, 1884-1906 approximately
- Wright Powell & Cameron, 1907-1919 approximately
- Powell & Cameron, 1920-1929 approximately
- Powell Cameron & Chisholm, 1930-1951 approximately
- Cameron & Chisholm & Nicol, 1963-1979 approximately

Table 1: Administration files, reports, specifications, correspondence, etc.

Table 2: Architectural plans

The majority of the plans in table 2 are of the racecourse at East Perth for the West Australian Turf Club (WATC), Ascot racecourse Belmont and the cricket ground for the West Australian Cricket Club (WACA) which temporarily held a race track. It is not clear whether some of the plans are of Ascot in Belmont, or Belmont Park racecourse. Also includes several plans of Plaistowe factory in Havelock Street West Perth and Perth Cultural Centre drama theatres complex (1979).

The folders and plans cover subjects such as churches, businesses, factories, car yards, country halls, municipal buildings, residences, etc.
