

AUSTRALIAN BANK EMPLOYEES UNION, WESTERN AUSTRALIAN DIVISION

In 1919 the Bank Officials' Association was formed and covered Western Australia. By 1921 the Bank Officials' Association of Western Australia had also been formed. In June 1963 Western Australia became a member of the federal union, the Australian Bank Officials' Association.

In Western Australia, the major concerns of the Association were the negotiating and policing of the various awards allowances and agreements by which Western Australian members were covered.

Early administration of the Division was the responsibility of a group of Chartered Accountants. In 1974 the Western Australian division purchased a house in West Perth for use as offices, and in the same year purchased a group of units at Cottesloe, to offer to members as holiday houses.

In 1978 the Australian Bank Officials Association changed its name to Australian Bank Employees' Union, a name which was felt to be more in line with the Associations aims and objectives.
